J. Freedman 520 Halsey St
Brooklyn, N.Y.

~~AMERICAN BOOK COMPANY~~
~~100 WASHINGTON SQUARE~~
~~NEW YORK~~

MAR 25
5 30PM
1919
STA.D

J. M. Freedman, Atty,
45 Goodyear Building
Memphis, Tenn.

March 4th, 1919.
Tuesday,

Dearest Dare Heart:—

Have just returned from seeing the parade, and believe me, I am tired. Was up 5th ave at 8 a.m. to reserve standing room on the sidewalk. Don't mind, dear, the parade was delayed because the mob was so big that they had finally to march the soldiers ahead. The decorations were magnificent. I did not remain for the entire thing as after awhile I got tired out. I left at 1 o'clock in afternoon

Leaving so early, I did not get your big Sunday letter. Gosh, I sure did hate to go for that reason. Rec'd late yesterday afternoon your Saturday letter in which you answered about the trouble I had with my Tuesday & Wednesday letters. Dare, dear, by now I guess it is all explained, and due to that terrible storm, and honey, I am certainly sorry that I upset you so much. But honey dear, you can hardly realize how worried I was. I hope I never have any occasion to use your uncle's home address, for I never want any more troubles like that, again.

Being so terribly tired, Dare, I am going to draw the letter to a close, now, and hope, precious you won't mind. I'll do better to-morrow. I do not look that you were here now, the weather is simply glorious and to have a nice long walk with you, that truly would be wonderful.

With all my love, dear, & kisses, I believe me. I am tired. Was on my feet all day. No seats standing room on the sidewalk. Don't mind, dear, the parade was delayed because the rain was so big that they had finally to march the soldiers & sailors. The decorations were magnificent. I did not remain for the entire thing as after awhile I got tired out. I left at 1 o'clock in afternoon leaving so early, I did not get your big Sunday letter. Gosh, I sure did hate to go for that reason. Rec'd later yesterday afternoon your Saturday letter in which you answered about the trouble I had with my Tuesday & Wednesday letters. Lord, dear, by now I guess it is all explained, at one to that terrible storm, and honey, I am certainly sorry that I upset you so much. But honey dear, you can hardly realize how worried I was. I hope I never have any occasion to use your mother's home address, for I never want any more trouble like that, again.

Being so terribly tired, Lord, I am going to draw the letter to a close, now, and hope, precious you won't mind. I'll do better to-morrow. I am sick look that you were here now, the weather is simply glorious and to have a nice long walk with you, the lovely would be wonderful.

With all my love, hugs & kisses,

Ever, your loving wifie

Lootes.